DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

A process is statutory if it requires physical acts to be performed outside the computer independent of and following the steps to be performed by a programmed computer, where those acts involve the manipulation of tangible physical objects and result in the object having a different physical attribute or structure (see MPEP 2106). A claim is limited to a practical application when the method, as claimed, produces a concrete, tangible and useful result; i.e., the method recites a step or act of producing something that is concrete, tangible and useful. Referring to the "Interim Guidelines for Examination of Patent Applications for Patent Subject Matter Eligibility" in determining whether the claim is for a "practical application," the focus is not on whether the steps taken to achieve a particular result are useful, tangible and concrete, but rather that the final result achieved by the claimed invention is "useful, tangible and concrete." (<http://www.uspto.gov/web/offices/com/sol/og/2005/week47/patgupa.htm>)

Claims 1-8 are drawn to a method. Claims 9-16 are drawn to a device. Due to the nature of Applicant's specified invention, the claimed device can be representative of a computer readable medium containing instruction codes that when executed perform a given method. Therefore all claims must produce a useful concrete and tangible result.

The claims produce and output an output signal, but only when an error mode is switched on. Therefore when the no error mode is switched on, no output signal is produced to be output and thus the claims in this case are drawn merely to checking whether an output mode is switch on. In this case, no information is presented to a user nor does a physical transformation occur outside the processing unit as a result. The claims therefore are not drawn such that they always produce a tangible result.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ohwada (U.S. Patent No. 4,443,849).

As to claims 1, 6, and 9, Ohwada discloses a method of executing method steps, which comprises: checking whether an error mode is switched on (col. 5, lines 58-63 and col. 4, lines 47-52); and producing an output signal in a method step and outputting the output signal only if the error mode is switched on (col. 7, lines 43-51).

As to claims 2-5, and 10-13, Ohwada further discloses wherein the method steps are divided into modules, and the method comprises changing from one module to another module during the execution of the method steps, and wherein the output signal comprises an identifier indicating in which module the output signal was produced (col. 5, lines 8-15 and col. 12, lines 44-51).

As to claims 7, 8, 14, and 15, Ohwada further discloses wherein the output signal is stored in a storage device, together with an indication of a time at which the output signal was stored (col. 7, line 58-col. 8, line 11).

As to claim 16, Ohwada further discloses input means configured to enable selective switching on and switching off of the error mode even during the execution of the method steps (col. 6, lines 40-50).

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

U.S. Patent No. 5,983,191 to Ha et al., teaches a least error mode with respect to compensating tone color.
